SETBACK FOR PROHIBITION.

Alabama's supreme court has decided that liquor is property, and, as such, is entitled to protection. As a state-wide prohibition law went into effect in Alabama a little over six months ago this ruling of its highest court will attract attention outside as well as inside that state. The liquor interests are powerful there, and they intend now to make a demonstration which will cause the country to take some notice of them. The courts are to be appealed to for protection, and the exclusion statute will have to make a fight for its life.

Possibly the Bingham Age-Herald is correct in saying that this decision dooms prohibition in that state to early extinction. As in Georgia, Mississippi and the other states which have tried it, state wide prohibition has been something of a failure in Alabama. The country remembers the attacks which Governor Hoke Smith of Georgia made upon the law officers of Savannah because of the fact, as he said, that more whisky was drunk in that town in the few months after prohibition went on the books than there was in the license days. According to observers on the ground exclusion has not excluded intoxicants from Atlanta. In Mobile and some of the other Alabama towns the law was violated from the beginning.

The prohibitionists of Alabama, however, have fared about as well as they have in Maine or any other state which has put this restriction into its constitution or its statutes. For much more than half a century Maine has, theoretically, shut out intoxicants, but the arrests for drunkenness in some of its cities are more numerous in proportion to population, than they are in St. Louis or the average town outside of the prohibition belt. Tennessee recently adopted the cast iron exclusion code. Nobody, however, supposes that it will ever be effective in Memphis, Nashville or any other of its more important towns. An attempt was made this year to force prohibition upon Missouri, but it was defeated. Prohibition's friends say the crusade will be renewed in the next legislature. If so, its failure then is likely to be more complete than it was in 1909. Here and there prohibition is meeting with some setbacks which are checking the movement. In theory it has gained possession of nine states. This number will hardly be increased in the near future.

Men Who Tried to Reach North Pole But Failed

Walter Wellman, an American left the island of Spitzbergen for the pole in a balloon August 15, 1909. His airship became disabled after he had traveled thirty miles and he was forced to return.

In 1906 Commander Robert E. Peary, U. S. A., reached 87 degrees 6 minutes, equivalent to about 203 miles from the pole. Peary is now in the polar regions on another expedition. A relief ship was sent out a month ago to endeavor to pick him up. He started from Sydney, Nova Scotia, July 17, 1908.

On September 3, 1905, Captain Ronald Amundsen, a Norwegian, completed the first voyage through the northwest passage. He left Christiania on the Gjoa, June 17, 1903, and arrived at Herschel Island, in the Arctic ocean in September of 1905.

In 1904, Baron Toll, a Russian, led an expedition partly by way of Siberia, but all the members perished.

In 1903, Erickson, a Dane, got as far as Saunders Islands, where he was rescued in a destitute condition. In the same year Anthony Fiala, a young Brooklyn explorer, sailed on the ship America and proceeded further north than the Duke of Abruzzi. His party endured great hardships before they were rescued. The Duke of Abruzzi made his expedition in 1900.

In 1895 Dr. Nansen reached 86 degrees 14 minutes on the vessel

Fram, which left Ingor Strait, August 4, 1893.

Professor Andree made his balloon trip in 1897. He left Tromsø, Norway, in his balloon, the Eagle, bound for the pole. Since his departure nothing authentic has been heard of him.

In 1883 Captain De Long's expedition in the Jeanette was lost near Henrietta Islands.

In 1882 the Greely expedition reached 83 degrees 24 minutes and in 1845 Sir John Franklin made his disastrous attempt to penetrate from Lancaster sound to Behring straits. At a meeting of the Explorers' Club of New York in October, 1907, a letter from Dr. Cook dated at Etah, August 26, gave this information:

"I find I have a good opportunity to try for the pole and therefore will stay here for a year. I hope to get to the Explorers' Club in September, 1908, with the record of the pole. I plan to cross Ellesmereland and reach the Polar sea by Nansen strait.

About the same time Herbert L. Bridgman of Brooklyn received this letter from Cook, similarly dated:

"I have hit upon a new route to the north pole and I will stay to try it. By way of Buchanan bay and Ellesmereland and northward through Nansen straits over the Polar sea seems to me to be a very good route. There will be game to the end of the 82nd degree."

CONSTABLE KILLS TRAMP AND THEN LEAVES STATE

Sheriff Clark received a dispatch this morning from J. J. Thurston, justice of the peace at Montello, stating that Constable Davidson killed a man last night and then disappeared. District Attorney Taber and Deputy Sheriff Rutherford left for Montello on No. 2 this morning. As no particulars were given by Mr. Thurston, we wired District Attorney Taber this afternoon and received the following:

"Montello, Nev., Sept. 2.—Charles Swenler with three other men were trying to get on a freight train last night at 8 o'clock (mountain time), when he was shot in the back by Constable Davidson. The bullet was taken out one inch below the navel. The constable, probably, had no intention to kill, but so far there is nothing to show any justification. The mother of the deceased was reached at Milwaukee by telegram today. An autopsy is now being held. The remains will be buried here tomorrow. It is generally believed that Davidson did the shooting. He is gone, and was last seen at Ogden this morning. Swenler died instantly after he was shot. Sent Rutherford on No. 4 with warrant and wired officers at Ogden. Elko Independent.

BERT GILLESPIE MAKES SECOND ORE SHIPMENT

LEASE ON JIM BUTLER IS PROVEN UP IN SATISFACTORY MANNER.

A second shipment of ore was made yesterday from the lease on the Jim Butler ground owned by Bert Gillespie and associates. The shipment composed a carload of ore which was sent to the Western Ore Purchasing company at Millers.

The workings of the lease are in excellent condition and the work will be pushed with all haste possible. One ledge has already been opened up for a width of eight inches which is of a good milling grade.

L. T. Fox and W. H. Thomas visited Goldfield yesterday, returning last evening.

of 499 feet. A raise has been started to connect with the winze from the 200-foot level.

400-foot level—The upper intermediate drift advanced eight feet and is now in sixty-four feet. The face is all in ore. The raise from the lower intermediate level has been connected with the stope above. The crosscut north from No. 4 crosscut, 120 feet in from the main west drift is in a total of twenty-five feet, the face showing low grade ore. A stope has been started ten feet back from the face. The usual amount of good shipping ore is being extracted in the stopes from No. 8 upraise and from the west drift. The total development for the week aggregated fifty-five feet. Two hundred tons of ore were shipped.

MIDWAY.

The developments in the Midway remain unchanged and no startling reports have been made. Throughout the workings, the work is being vigorously pushed with the majority of the exploitations confined to the lower level. The winze from the main drift on the 637-foot level is now down 140 feet and is passing through low-grade quartz. The usual amount of shipping ore continues to be extracted from the stopes on the 400-foot level. During the past month the regular amount of ore was shipped which totaled about 100 tons weekly or 400 tons for the month.

Why Send Out of Town for Your Printing

When you can have first-class work done right here, by first-class union printers.

The business man who sends out of town for his printing injures his own business as well as that of others. While on the other hand the man who patronizes home institutions increases the town's pay roll, and thereby builds up his business.

The printers and book binders in the cities of surrounding states do not come here to spend their money.
